Brunet-García Donates Violins to Cathedral Arts Project
-The Gift Enhances Children's Classes-

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (April 9, 2009) -The Cathedral Arts Project, a youth arts education program, received a gift of music from Brunet-García through six new violins donated as part of their ongoing community outreach efforts. The violins will be used as part of Cathedral Arts Project's string classes held twice weekly at San Jose Elementary School.

"Cathedral Arts Project is an inspirational organization, providing unique educational opportunities to students in Duval County," said Diane Brunet-García, president of Brunet-García. "Music and art are vital to a well-rounded education. We are honored to be able to help children develop their musical talents, especially children whose families may be working hard to assimilate to our culture and to our language."

San Jose Elementary, which boasts an English as a Second Language Program (ESOL), is just one of the participating elementary schools in the Cathedral Arts Project's programs. With more than 25 students from 3rd-5th grade enrolled in string classes, the CAP's programs aim to reach children through music and arts education, extending to them opportunities they may not otherwise have.

"We are so grateful to Brunet-García for stepping up to the plate to help provide violins for our program at San Jose Elementary," remarked the Rev. Kimberly Hyatt, executive director of Cathedral Arts Project. "Their gift will be cherished by children for years to come as they are introduced to the beauty, discipline and power of music."
